She said, she said, I'm leaving here.
I said OK and I just turned away.
She pulled my shirt and looked at me.
And I thought about, how this all could be.

There were times I thought that we were through.
And now you're far away and I can't be with you.
This girl is gorgeous but she's not you.

I walk around, I search for you.
But you're not here, don't know what to do.
Back to my friends, join them a while.
But I can't forget the words that you've said.

There were times I thought that we were through.
And now you're far away and I can't be with you.
This girl is gorgeous but she's not you.
